TROTTING AT MYSTIC PARE, MASS.

Closing of the Races—Contest Between Amer-ican Girl, Goldamith Maid and George Palmer—Goldamith Maid the Winner-Boston, June 20, 1870.

wound up this afternoon. The first race was for a purse of $1,000, divided into premiums of $600, $300 and $100. The competing horses were Dorsey's Fanny Golddust, Bigler's Day-light, Doty's Lady Augusta, Norcross' Robert Bonner, and Lady Moscow, of Indiana. None of the heats were close or exciting, and after the first heat Daylight was drawn, and Lady Augusta won the race in three straight heats, in 2:35%, 2:35% and 2:35%. Bonner got the second money and Lady Moscow the third.

Fourth Heat.—At the opening of the fourth heat an exhibition of lockeying was witnessed, the like of which, it is hoped, will never again disgrace the annals of the American turf. The owner of Goldsmith Mald, desiring, it is alleged, to gain sufficient time for the placing of new shoes upon the feet of his horse, pleaded that she had cast a shoe in the third heat, but was unable to give a satisfactory reason why her driver did not report it. In the meantime the horses had begun to score, and Mr. Daniels, who is a little deaf, linagining that he had received the word, trotted clear around the track. The judges waited for him, however, and also for Goldsmith Maid. The driver of American Girl seeing a good opportunity to calk his horse, and perhaps feeing confident of the sympathy of the judges, withdrew his mare from the track. The judges, withdrew his mare from the track and the race was considered to any lody. Both the Maid and Palmer acted wildly. Coming down the homestretch the race belonged to anybody. AMUSEMENTS.

OLYMPIC THEATRE-"FIELD OF THE CLOTH OF GOLD."-There was, for this weather, a very good attendance at this house last night on the occasion of the first performance of Byron's clever burlesone

which is so well known here that extended comment on it would be superfluous. We doubt if there has ever been before on our boards such a dashing, piquant and interesting representative of Earl Darnley as Mrs. James A.

and all the chic, dash and sporting vivacity that are desirable in this branch of acting. Miss Georgie pickson made a very acceptable Lady Constance, and Messrs. Dunn and Fisk, as the rival kings, were as funny as might be desired. The rest of the company were equally acceptable in their respective roles, and in the grand tournament seems Professor O'Reirdon, in his quaint performance on the "Tumblerconian" created both applause and enjoyment. The other features in this scene were Hernandez's Japs, guitar solo and the French dancing master. The piece was placed on the stage in Manager Hayes' best style, which can only be described by the word "Te!" Mr. Symons, the business manager, has a benefit on the Fourth of July, on which occasion he will appear himself.

vacious as it is pleasing and wonderful character izes. The acting of Little Nell, the California Dia

last evening at this popular place of amuse wise with all its other multitudinous attrac-tions, there was, notwithstanding the "heated initiatory appearance in an exquisitely charming farce called "Popsey Wopsey," written expressly for the happiest advantage. It is necessary to see the play to understand its plot and properly appreciate the multifarious characterizations by this dashing play to understand its plot and properly appreciate the multifarious characterizations by this dashing and piquant young actress. As an Irish boy she cannot be surpassed, and she is equally fine as a Dutch girl, while as a drummer boy, banjo soloist and singer and dancer she is just as hard to be beat. At the conclusion of the piece she was called before the curtain, and showed herself also felicitious at speechmaking. She is likely to be a ruling favorile here for some time. The evening's fine entertainment concluded with the famous Martinetti Troupe in the comic pantomime, "Jocko," The Ravels never played it better. No genuine Brazilian ape can be more real and life-like and not half so grotesque and funny as Paul Martinetti.

Mystic Park races, at Medford,

The Corn Exchange building, enlarged to four times its present size, should be in the centre of this new district of trade. The boats and barges from the North river would thus be saved twenty-five miles in distance, and the grain loading ships an equal distance in entering the harbor through Long Island Sound. Such improvements as these, commensurate with the present wants of commerce and the future greatness of the city, are what is wanted. Let the plans be comprehensive in design and substantial in construction. Let the neglect of fifty years be now remedied by the exercise of a clear intelligence and a sound judgment. We shall in this way alone do justice to ourselves and to those who are to come after us.

Political Affairs in Chile. The struggle which has been going on for some time in the republic of Chile between the rival political parties has in a measure quieted down. The elections are over, and the people are now looking forward with no little degree of anxiety to the work before Congress. Rarely in the history of Chile has there been a contest carried out with such vigor and determination. The best men of all parties were placed in the field. Among those who represented the liberal or progressive spirit of the republic were men of marked ability, and though the members elected are Inferior in numbers to those who represent the wiews of the government, the talent which it is acknowledged they possess, accompanied by unquestioned patriotism, will render them formidable antagonists. As the national legislature of Chile now stands out of the ninetysix members who compose it forty-one are firm supporters of the government, twentysix are progressists, fifteen belong to the clergy, and the remaining fourteen may be considered as undecided in their political bias. From these figures it will be seen that each of the parties is pretty well represented in the national legislature. A lively session may consequently be anticipated, and the subjects of education, agriculture, internal improvements and public works will be fully ventilated; and with so strong a liberal force in Congress no doubt the question of greater religious liberty will also receive attention. One of the most gratifying features of the late elections, and one that augurs well for the future welfare of the republic, is the absence of those revolutionary exhibitions which too frequently find a place an periods of electioneering excitement in the Spanish-American republics. No such scenes were witnessed during the last campaign in Chile. They were not even feared. The day is fast passing away, in Chile at least, whe disorders or fancied or real wrongs can only be remedied by a resort to the sword. Peaceful means have been found to accomplish incredibly more than the shedding of blood. The Chileans have recognized this, and hence we may conclude that the present political aspect of Chile is on the whole reassuring.

THE INTERNAL REVENUE receipts of theatres for the month of May, just published, make some queer developments as to the taste of our metropolitan theatregoers. The New York Circus heads the list with forty thousand dollars, which merely indicates that our heads of families are willing to give children a full share of amusement, and nothing could be indicated more creditable to their taste or their affections. The French theatre, where Fechter and Miss Leclercq have been playing, comes next, with thirtythree thousand dollars, and Wallack's next, with twenty-nine thousand dollars, and here no fault can be found with metropolitan taste : But the next highest on the list are the Grand Opera House, Niblo's and the Olympic, where legs and burlesque have predominated, ahead of Booth's and the Fifth Avenue, where the legitimate and the romantic drama have full play. Is it possible that our people are not yet satisfied even in warm weather with the heat and glare of spectacular monstrosities or the lavish displays of blonde burlesques?

The following special order has just been issued from the War Department:—

The Indians during the past four months have been comparatively quiet, and will very likely continue so until their crops are harvested and their root gathered. They will rarely be entirely harmless until they suffer the fate of all the aboriginals that come in contact with the whites, particularly those without tribal organization, such as the Mohaves, Hualapis, Covoleros, Tontos and others of the untained and untamable tribes that inhabit the Territory of Arizona, and live on its borders. The Panas and Manieopas are, as formerly, upon the most friendly terms with the whites, but they are somewhat dissatisfied at the encroachments of setters upon their reservation and the large numbers of cattle that have been and are now being driven through their land, destroying the grass and their crops. They have not much confidence in or respect for their agent, with whom, I understand, they are not on the best of terms. On arriving at the latter place the cinid was assisted out of the car by a gentleman, and at the same moment there was a rush of passengers from the platform of the station, which forced the mother back into the car, and before she had an opportunity to obtain egress to the platform the train was put in motion. THE HEATED TERM.

Hot Weather and Still Upward Tendency of the Thermometrical Mercury-Comparative Temperature in the Leading Cities of the United States.

It is to be hoped that the culminating point of the "heated term," which commenced last Friday, has been reached, and that the heat will now begin to grow "beautifully less," instead of uncomfortably greater, as during the past few days. In this latter respect, however, "we shall see what we shall see," for it possibly may be that we have only entered on the beginning of the beginning, and that there is much "worse a coming." Of course all anxiously hope, and we wish we could and pray-but we very much fear there is be, that, like the prayers of the wicked, they would avail but little—that it will not long thus continue, the wishes of vendors of sods water and retailers of iced smashes, cobblers, juleps and cocktoils and proprietors of rural hotels and country watering places to the contrary notwith-Such a torrid sweltering day as yesterday, such a clear cloudless sky, a great dome of brazen heat; such reflection of convergent heat from side walks and marble and brick walls, starts the perspiration from every pore, and is greatly demoralizing to shirt collars and shirt bosoms, and the most summery of summer garments. Such heat not only wilts one's garments but the life and vim out of one. It is bad for business, very bad for theatres, and, most of all, for horses. If Bergh ever had tears to shed he must have shed them yesterday at sight of the sweltering, panting horses dragging at weary pace city cars and omnibuses, all laden with human freight to their fullest capacity. But we will not dwell upon the effects of the heat or those made to suffer by it or rejoced at it. It was particularly severe on out-door laborers.

There is one gratifying feature connected with the present heated term, as will be seen by the table given below, and that is, that excepting in New Orloans and Savannah there has been no such heat anywhere else throughout the country as in this city. We beat Havana and even Key West. The following is the thermometrical record at nine A. M. yesterday in all the principal cities of the United States. The presumption is that later in the day the temperature in a majority of the places named was considerably higher, as it certainly was in this city.— Such a torrid sweltering day as yesterday, such a week, however, withorswil. The drawing for positions resulted in Palmer taking the inside, American Girl second and Goldsmith Maid on the outside. Several ineffectual attempts were made at scoring before the horses started for the First Head.—Palmer started off bravely, keeping full half a length ahead of the Maid, who pressed him closely. At the first turn she broke badly, but soon recovered herself and darted ahead, gaining one and one-half lengths. The half mile was passed in nearly the same order, the Maid keeping well down to her work, and American Girl far in the rear. Palmer then began to show the effects of the tremendous pace at which the horses were going, and after faltering a bit lost his feet and went badly into a gallop. This gave American Girl an opportunity to pick up her crumbs, which she succeeded in doing and gained the second position. The horses trotted finely down the homestretch, and came under the wire, Goldsmith Maid three lengths in advance of American Girl, Palmer five lengths in the rear. Time—Quarter, 354; seconds; half, 1:09 junie, 2:22.

Second Heat.—Palmer took one and a half length in advance at the word "Go." but was compelled to do his prettiest to keep it. The Maid trotted splendidly, rapidly overhauling her competitor, until at the quarter pole she had diminished the distance to one half length. Palmer here put on a vigorous burst of speed, and put three lengths of daylight between humelir and his competitors. He broke his pace soon after, however, and lost this advantage and dropped in the rear of the Maid, who quickly got herself twice the length of her sulky in advance. The horses came down the home stretch in the same order—Goldsmith Maid first, George Palmer second, and American Girl last, Time—Quarter, 354; seconds; half, 1:09; mile, 2:294.

Thurd Heat.—A great deal of interest and muon excitement were manifested among the sellers and buyers of pools. A blinding rath storm sprang up, which tended to dampen the clothes, but not the ardor, of the spectators. Palmer start which, as regards stillness and singularity, makes all its predecessors pale their ineffectual fires. As the story goes, some two years ago Mr. Jeremiah Baldwin, a pleasant featured, well formed youth of twenty-one, became possessed of a handsome property, estimated to be worth probably $75,000. About the same time or very soon thereafter he became acquainted with a lady in West Kinney street, the mother of a marriageable daughter, whose pretty face and charming figure constituted her sole fortune. In due time Jerry and the daughter made a match of it and went to reside in a very nice honse owned by Jerry on Clinton avenue. The honeymoon scarcely ended when Jerry, who is, perhaps, not the brightest genus in the world, began to get tired of having his wife call him a fool, "softy," and such like, and in a fit of passion he deserted her. His stay was not long, however, though it had the effect to improve his wife's manners. About this time Jerry had been living a little extravagantly, and by way of laying by a nest egg for a rainy day his wife advised him to make over to her the balance of his property in money, some $20,000. After considerable coaxing he did so. Within a few days the wife has cleared out, having previously taken the best of the furniture. Now that Jerry is sans wife, sans home and sans property he feeis like one who "Loved not wisely, but too well."

MORE MARITAL TROUBLES IN JERSEY. Newark has another case of conjugal infelicity,

From the wife he received a note stating that she never loved him and would henceforth live with her mother. Alas, poor Jerry: perty, estimated to be worth probably $75,000.

On arriving at the latter place a funeral dirge was sung, an oration delivered, the funeral pyre lighted and the ashes inurned. The scene was solemn and ludierous in the extreme, when, as the lighting flashed back a reflection of the red and blue lights, and the thunder rolled in sohe to the big bass drum, while the skies wept tears of sympathy, the venerable Bojesen was planted under the green, and the class sang the mournful refrain of Behold how we've gathered at dead of the night, and the class sang the mournful refrain of Behold how we've gathered at dead of the hight, Bejesen to bury by the torch's red light,

With songs of lamenting we've followed the hier,
With qualing of lager our hearts we'll now cheer.
The funeral oration was delivered by Mr. R. R.
Hamilton and the elegy chanted by Mr. W. L.
Murphy, when the motley crowd retired.
